HR.com, the largest network of human resources (HR) executives, has announced HR.com's Future of Talent Acquisition 2024 Advisory Board.

Working closely with HR.com's HR Research Institute (HRRI), the newly-appointed talent acquisition advisory board will collaborate to positively influence the HR industry's thought leadership and best practices through primary research. The board will work to ensure the talent acquisition research and event content aligns with industry best practices in various aspects such as sourcing, talent need assessments, recruitment strategies, DEIB, technology, metrics analysis, and compliance.
