Brain, digestive, and sleep health performance relies on a proven formula. So too does hyper-growth business success. NextGen Supplement Company BIOptimizers is ongoing proof of excellence on both fronts.

Even more impressive, BIOptimizers' triple-digit growth occurred despite a challenging economic backdrop and belt-tightening in consumer spending. BIOptimizers' path to performance was and continues to be one of pain, passion, and product development at an unheard-of level. One should expect nothing less from a hyper-growth e-commerce health products company founded by two driven ex-physical trainers.

As Co-Founder Matt Gallant shared, "2022 was our first year on the Inc. 5000 list of fastest-growing companies. 2023 marks the second consecutive year we made the Inc. 5000 list. As we scale our company and expand new strategic partnerships, all credit goes to our entire BiOptimizers team and especially our leading product developers. And I have to say, we're just getting started."

A quick search on Amazon reveals thousands of health supplement companies. And yet only a distinct few have risen to the level of BIOptimizers.

BIOptimizers' selection to the prestigious Inc. 5000 list of the fastest-growing, privately owned companies in America for the second year running is a rare achievement. Inc Magazine selects their top 5000 out of 6 million privately held companies in the US.

The official rankings BIOptimizers achieved include:

- Overall Inc. 5000 Rank: 1288th
- Percentage of Growth (3 year): 454%
- Industry (Health Products) Rank: 24th
- State Rank: 12th

The Inc. 5000 list has a rich history as the premier standard bearer of entrepreneurial success in the United States. Established companies previously named to the list include household names such as Microsoft, Chobani, Oracle, Under Armour, Pandora, and Patagonia.
