RChilli, a member of the Oracle Partner Network (OPN), is excited to announce its strategic partnership with QC Consulting Group, which provides a full range of consulting services. This collaboration highlights both companies' dedication to providing customers with long-term sustainable solutions at the highest quality.

RChilli has gained a well-deserved reputation for its cutting-edge resume parsing technology and its ability to accurately extract candidate data, earning accolades within the HR tech industry. On the other hand, QC Consulting Group is highly esteemed for serving the comprehensive needs of Human Capital Management for businesses leveraging Oracle Cloud solutions.

The collaboration between RChilli and QC Consulting Group offers numerous valuable advantages to Oracle recruiters, such as:

- Seamless Integration
- Streamlining Processes and Improving Operational Efficiency
- Customized Solutions to Address Specific Challenges
- Improve Productivity
- Data-Driven Insights

"Our partnership with QC Consulting Group is a significant milestone in RChilli's pursuit of serving the Oracle and HR communities," remarked Michael Josifovski, Head of Strategic Partnerships and alliances at RChilli. "The thing that sets QC Consulting Group apart is their unwavering commitment to professionalism, effectiveness, and excellence, values that resonate deeply with RChilli's culture of innovation."

Matt Layne, co-founder of QC Consulting Group, emphasized the significance of this collaboration, stating, "This partnership holds great meaning for us as it directly benefits our mutual clients by providing a unified approach to addressing the crucial talent acquisition needs that organizations are currently prioritizing. RChilli's commitment to innovation and their dedication to fostering positive customer engagement resonate perfectly with QC's culture and mission, which is centered on helping our clients optimize their investments in Oracle."

Oracle recruiters can expect a recruitment process that is more efficient, precise, and data-driven. This partnership represents a significant advancement in recruitment technology, providing advantages to organizations.
